

For Jew and You Too.

The 17th season of the Austin Jewish Film Festival (AJFF) opens with a party followed by a film at Austin's Long Center for the Performing Arts in the Rollins Studio Theater on Saturday, November 2, 2019. From Sunday November 3 through Friday November 8, the festival continues at the Regal Arbor theater with a wide variety of films and programs including dramas, comedies, documentaries, and shorts.

AJFF is not just about excellent films. We seek to expand the Jewish conversation and make cross-cultural alliances throughout our world-class city, Austin, Texas. We are building bridges throughout our community with thoughtful engagement and entertaining our audiences through Jewish films.

This year AJFF is significantly expanding its outreach with an exciting new marketing campaign: "For Jew and You Too," created by Norbi Zylberberg (Socialisssima.com) together with Natasha Louckevitch (cpurpose.com), and multiple worldwide partners. The festival is directed by long time volunteers Cynthia Winer and David Finkel. Contact dfinkel@austinjff.org

The full schedule, film details include trailers, as well as tickets and passes are available at AustinJFF.org

A new AJFF Monthly Film Series in partnership with Shalom Austin is coming in early 2020.
