

For Jew and You Too.

The 18th season of the Austin Jewish Film Festival (AJFF) opens with a secure, socially-distanced gala drive-in event on Saturday, November 7, 2020 on the Dell Jewish Community Campus.

From Sunday November 8 through Friday November 13, the festival continues with a bumper crop of the latest and greatest Jewish films, including dramas, comedies, shorts, and documentaries—all presented virtually. Filmmakers will join us from across the world to discuss their work.

Closing night, Thursday November 12, will be another hugely entertaining drive-in event on the Dell Jewish Community Campus at 7300 Hart Lane, Austin, Texas 78731.

AJFF is not just about excellent films. We seek to expand the Jewish conversation and make cross-cultural alliances throughout our world-class city of Austin. We're building bridges between communities with thoughtful engagement and discussion through the use of Jewish films.

Also, don't miss AJFF365 - AJFF's Monthly Film Series in partnership with Shalom Austin, continuing to make the best in Jewish film content available all 12 months of the year. This includes film screenings, Q&A's, and other events.

AJFF's Marketing is produced by Norbi Zylberberg (Socialissima.com).

PR managed by Kristen O'Brien PR (press@austinjff.org).

The festival is directed by longtime volunteer David Finkel. Contact dfinkel@austinjff.org
